Chief Executive of Liverpool and Sefton Chambers of Commerce and Liverpool Chamber Training. I am the founder of Spark Up, Liverpool's first start up business accelerator which also helps businesses to grow and scale. Liverpool Chamber creates business, jobs and contributes to the economic success of the city.

I started out by joining HM Diplomatic service at just 17, working in the North America Department of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office as my first job after school. I also worked in the FCO emergency unit during the Falklands Island conflict.

After 10 years in the public sector, I joined BT in a sales role and since then have held several senior level commercial posts. I started and ran a business with partners in Sutton in Ashfield in Nottinghamshire, and another on the Wirral.

I am passionate about creating jobs for the future for young people. Every individual learns and develops in their own way and business can play a role in helping young people to excel.
